

SPECIAL SALE ADVERTISING

Does it pay to advertise a special sale of lumber even though it is the hottest season of the century and hottest month of the season?

About July 15th I advertised a special sale to move a lot of lumber. Here are the results in cash—

July 17 deposit	$161.15
July 18 deposit	259.49
July 19 deposit	183.60
July 20 deposit	687.50
July 21 deposit	195.00
July 22 deposit	131.57
July 23 deposit	125.90
July 24 deposit	615.55

I advertised 85,000 feet of lumber three times, one and two-inch, at $20.00 a thousand. The bank deposits show I sold more than that much lumber at that price, and I did; but I only sold 25,000 feet of the kind I advertised. I have lots of better lumber and many people buy it. While these 27,000 feet of No. 2 one-inch redwood and two-inch Oregon and native pine that I left, I will continue to sell it at $20.00, and some as low as $15.00 a thousand.

While these special sales are not profitable to me, they are to you, and I give you money to pay the wholesaler, when due, and leads up to larger sales. It will always pay you to take advantage of them.

WILMINGTON MAN SUICIDES

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire] DENVER, Aug. 5.—The body of Hugh C. Brown, well known resident of Wilmington, Del., and said to have been formerly postmaster there, was found on the summit of Lookout Mountain near Golden Lake today, with a bullet wound in the head. A note left with his hat in the roadside, nearby indicated suicide. Financial difficulties were ascribed by Brown's attorney here as the cause. Brown came west to manage a branch of the A. I. Dupont interests here.

HEROIC ACTS EVERY DAY ON BATTLEFIELDS

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire]

BEFORE VERDUN, August 5.—Examples of the heroism displayed by French soldiers of all ranks in the tremendous attack upon this fortress occur in every corner of the battlefield, not as anything exceptional, but every day and every hour.

During ten days that a certain battalion held the ground between Donau and Fleury, taking and losing, and retaking foot by foot, almost inch by inch, plots of land torn up by shell-fire and mines, it fronted twelve German attacks and counter-attacks the same number of times. On one of these occasions the battalion had before it ten companies of German infantry with a machine gun company and two squadrons of light cavalry. "It was a battle," said a French officer, "a horrible dream, a hell." Yet the battalion held out notwithstanding its many losses.

Lieutenant G— (all but a very few of those Verdun heroes are nameless) though badly wounded in the thigh remained in the front line of his company for three whole days and was carried into the thick of the fighting on a stretcher, directing his men, keeping tab on the munition supply, and even writing a letter to his colored teller how he and his men had resisted five attacks in four days without giving way a single inch.

Another lieutenant, inspector of an insurance company, seeing a hostile machine-gun taking position in a French trench asked his colonel's permission to attack though it meant certain death. With a pipe in his mouth and swinging a little cane he led the onset, calling out: "Come on, boys, let's charge like musketeers." Six bullets found lodgment in his body before the trench was reached, but then he had his reward for the trench was taken and the machine gun destroyed. Still a third lieutenant, Lieutenant T—, joined in a counter-attack which succeeded in driving the enemy out of a trench he had captured. The retiring Germans took with them eight men of Lieutenant T's company as prisoners. That would not do for Lieutenant T—, who, with a single sergeant, jumped out of the trench, peppered the Germans with his revolver, and brought back his eight men. For this act of bravery he was promoted captain.

MURDEROUS NEGRO SLAIN

[Republican A. P. Leased Wire] DENVER, Aug. 5.—Theodore Barker, 47, a negro, while chasing his aged stepfather with a loaded weapon was himself shot and instantly killed tonight by William E. Wilson, white, who was attracted to the scene by shots said to have been fired by Barker. Barker's stepfather, John Anderson, was struck twice and probably fatally wounded. The trouble is said to have had its inception in a domestic quarrel at Anderson's home.

at least 2,000 who were looting a street car with stones and attempting to rescue a prisoner from a patrol man. Women and children hurled missiles from tenement house roofs. Police reserves arrived and cleared not only the street but the roofs as well.

There was sporadic rioting at several points during the day and many arrests were made, but there were few casualties. In most instances the crowds were content to loiter the strike breakers or regular employees who had not joined the strike.

Officials of the lines operating in Manhattan and the Bronx declared tonight they were preparing for a test of strength tomorrow when the operation of cars is resumed.

At many meetings held during the day union leaders exhorted the strikers to abstain from violence. Employees of New York's subway and elevated railways lines passed resolutions at secret meetings held today, according to union officials, asserting their right to organize without any interference in any way by the companies. They also drafted a new wage scale.

Mayor Mitchell said the police had instructions that their sole duty was to prevent acts of violence.

Coming in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—Thomas Frutkin, president of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company replied today to the ultimatum sent to him yesterday by Harry E. Flynn, president of the local Amalgamated union of street and electric railway employees in which a strike of the 4,700 motormen and conductors in this city are threatened.

The company reaffirms a previous statement that it cannot deal with the union or consider its demands. Flynn was noncommittal as to when the strike order would be given. "It is only a matter of hours," he said.

successfully shelled the German works in the region of Dixmude today. The enemy replied feebly.

Inquiries made by the Associated Press in the most authoritative quarters, concerning the position of the French government respecting the treatment of American commerce with neutral states, showed that the restrictive measures against Germany have been taken in mutual accord between France and Great Britain.

All German attacks on the French positions last night were repulsed, the Germans sustaining heavy losses.

A bombardment of the most violent character took place over the entire sector of Thiaucourt and Fleury. The battle lasted from 5 o'clock last night until 8 o'clock this morning, the Germans making unsuccessful efforts to drive the French from the Thiaucourt works.

TURNING POINT IN GREAT WAR BEEN REACHED

"Although the fighting is getting more and more bitter, everyone recognizes in the complete unity of the allies that destiny has shaped its course and everyone can clearly see what the final outcome is going to be. The unity on all fronts is a great characteristic of the campaign now going on and the effect is now apparent of the constant pressure on all sides by the allies who have not had time to form their plans, thanks to the sacrificed which the French nation has made. We must also pay full homage to the splendid part our allies are taking in the increasing efforts along the Somme and on all other fronts. The Russian effort has now succeeded in organizing and putting forward larger and larger forces of men, drawn from their apparently inexhaustible sources of human material and at the same time fully arming these masses. The splendid results of their efforts are shown in what they have accomplished in Galicia and along the entire eastern front.

"Once more the chance has fallen to England to show the vast extent of her resources both in men and material and the extent of his efforts is shown in what has been accomplished on the Somme front.

"The Italians have had a much harder task and a more limited sphere of action, and you know how admirably they have fulfilled their part of this common action. As for the reorganized Serbian army, it is only just beginning to take its full part in the war.

General Joffre now turned his attention to the German side of the campaign, taking up the evidences of weakness, which have shown in the quality of their attacks and in the number of reserves they are able to move to various fronts.

"If on the other side we consider the conditions of the enemy," General Joffre continued, "we know for certain that although they are fighting as desperately as ever, they are drawing on their last reserves. Their game has been, up until now, to transfer their reserves from one point to another and from one front to another, but with the united action of the allies on all fronts our enemy finds such a course impossible now and will find it increasingly so in the future. It is not for me to say how long the struggle is going to last, but that really matters little.

"We know the crash is coming and you feel as well as we do that we have already reached and passed the turning point. The five months resistance of our troops at Verdun has shattered the hopes of the Germans and has turned the scale. But still, do not imagine that there is a complete weakening of the German effort on the western front. We know there are still opposed to all our armies on the western front, two-thirds of the best fighting forces that Germany can put in the field—that is one hundred and twenty-two divisions of their best troops against the French and British line on the west and fifty German divisions operating with the Austrian forces along the Russian front.

General Joffre was speaking with great earnestness as he referred to the extent of the German forces massed on the western front but he now turned to another topic, saying:

"But although it is a pleasure for me to give you this information yet I think it is the best thing for you to see what is going on for yourselves. You will see on the front an army of which the spirit and energy have remained exactly the same after two years of war. Not only that, but the number of our soldiers at the front is actually greater today than it was at the beginning of the war. You will understand the determination to see the war through to a victorious conclusion.

"We are fighting not merely for the interests of our respective countries, but also for the liberties of the world, and we shall not stop until the liberties of the world are definitely assured."

General Joffre concluded the interview with a renewal of his cordial feeling toward the American people.
